bion by the commission and its findings. That attempt at diplomacy, said Mr. Frye, cost us $11,500,000. At last notice was given of the termination of this treaty, and then, if this great sountry had simply stood on its rights, this thing would have ended. There would have been peace, and we would have had the rights we were entitled to. Secretary Bayard had an itching palm for diplomacy, and it de-lighted his very soul to be engaged in a diplo-matic correspondence. He was profoundly ig-norant of the fishery matter then, as could be proved without the slightest difficulty, and he presumed the Secretary himself would admit it. But there was a gentleman here-Sir Lionel West-who was not ignorant of the matter, and he persuaded Secretary Bayard that it would be six months before Congress thet; that it was right in the midst of the fishery season; that there would be conflicts between the fishermen of the United States and the fishermen of Can-ada; that very likely that might lead to a war with Great Britain, and Mr. Bayard said: "What can I do! I will do anything that you say." And he granted the modus vivendi, clearly without any right to do it under the Constitution. He gave us the right for six months to fish in British waters; and the Canadians the right to fish in ours for the same length of time. But that was not the pub of the treaty: it was this: "That the |President of the United States shall recommend to Congress the appointment of a commission to settle fishery rights." The President recommended it, but the Senate did not approve, and once more the peace was broken, and the next year and a half 120 American vessels were seized in those waters under every conceivable pretense. Vessels were driven to sea in storms; they were refused hospitality, they were treated so barbarously that the Democratic Secretary of the Treasury declared the treatment

to be brutal. Mr. Frye referred sarcastically to the meetings of the plenipotentiaries at Washington; their homes furnished with $10 orchids; themselves living like princes, and baving much ele gant leisure on their hands. And what was the result! he asked.

Here it is, he said, holding up a copy of the treaty. The mountain labored; there is the mouse. All that I have to say about this treaty is that it is the most disgraceful, humiliating and cowardly surrender which the American Republic has ever made in its whole history, not excepting the treaty of 1818.

At this stage of his remarks Mr. Frye complained that the air was exceedingly oppressive, and suggested that if the Senate would give its consent he would finish his speech to-morrow. There being some dissent to that, a recess was taken for half an hour, and the gallery doors and windows were ordered to be opened.

Mr. Frye resumed his argument against the fisueries treaty, dwelling at some length on the headlands theory, and arguing that it was never more than a theory; that it had never been reduced to practice except in two cases, when it was overruled, and that it would have remained settled bad not Secretary Bayard reopened it. Mr. Beck having undertaken to controvert some of Mr. Frye's statements, the latter replied that if Great Britain contended that she owned the United States of America, he supposed the Senator from Kentucky would say there should be a treaty to settle the difficulty. Mr. Beck-I mean to say that it is better to settle difficulties between friendly nations by negotiations than by war.

Mr. Frye-If you yield everything and the other nation yields nothing, I deny it. I say that a great republic like ours ought, some time or other, to stand for the right. [Applause in the galleries. | Coming to the ninth article of the treaty, which declares that nothing in the treaty should interrupt or affect the free navigation of the Gut of Canso by fishing vessels of the United States, he declared that the Gut of Canso had never been closed in the history of the world; that no nation ever dared to close it or ever dreamed of closing it. And yet the President of the United States had congratulated Congress that at last the Straits of Canso were free and open. In conclusion, Mr. Five said: "A year ago, in the United States Senate and House of Representatives, we were all for the rights of American citizens; we were united to a man. Nobody dreamed of raising a political issue in this matter. talked as a party man in And where are to-day? We The President of the United States taking, practically, the Cananian side of this controversy; the Secretary of State, practically, taking the Canadian side of the controversy; the great Democratic party of the Nation arrayed on the side of Canada, and against the American fishermen. I say to you, Mr. President, that a most grievous wrong has been wrought by this treaty-making. I say that these steps which have been taken can never be retraced; that in the long future we shall never be permitted to stand where we stood only one year ago, when we claimed here in the Senate that we would defend the rights of American fishermen against Great Britain or any other power on earth. We have surrendered that right; we have yielded it. We have said through the President of the United States, in solemn language, that the treaty is just and fair, and is all that could be demanded by her and heres the said that could be demanded by us; and hereafter and forever our mouths are closed. Again I declare that this treaty is a dishonorable, humiliating and sowardly surrender." Mr. Gray obtained the floor to make a speech upon the treaty, but its further consideration was, on motion of Mr. Beck, who said that he and other Senators desired to attend the St. Louis convention, postponed until Monday, June 11. The motion to postpone till December next was entered by Mr. Morgan, and is now pending. Motions to publish the proceedings in executive session, past and future, in the Congressional Record, were also made and agreed to. Adourned till Thursday.

An amendment was adopted appropriating $22,000 to meet the expenses of the twelfth blennial session of the Legislature of Washington Territory. Mr. Carey, of Wyoming, offered and advo-eated an amendment providing that the Governor and other officers of Wyoming Territory shall be appointed from among the residents of that Territory, but the amendment was ruled out on a point of order. Mr. Perkins, of Kansas, offered an amendment requiring ten inspectors of land claims to be appointed from the clerks in the General Land Office. He said that the late Andrew Jackson Sparks, Commissioner of the Land Office, had issued an order suspending all entries in a large section of the country, and had devoted his official life to harassing and embarrassing poor settlers in their efforts to secure homes. He was all right as long as he confixed himself to striking down the poor settlers, but when he attempted to use the same methods against a railroad company he was ordered by the administration to step down and out. The amendment was ruled out on a point of

The committee finally rose and reported the the bill and amendments to the House. Mr. Holman, of Indiana, demanded a separate vote on the amendment increasing the cierical force of the Civil-service Commission The vote resulted 37 to 66, and the point of go quorum was made. Then the House adjourned till Thursday.

special to the Indianapolis Journal Washington, May 29.—The attorneys of the Drawbaugh telephone syndicate, including Postmaster general Dickinson and Hill, have held many consultations, and finally have agreed to apply to a lower federal court for an opening of the contest against the Bell patent on newlyfound evidence. They expect that court to re-fuse the application, and will then appeal to the Supreme Court. They take the position that that court will then be obliged to consider the appeal, and that especially when Mr. Fuller is confirmed as Chief-justice, the justices who de-PITTSBURG, May 29.-Yesterday the proprietors of retail establishments in this city where Knights of Labor are employed as salesmen gave notice that they would close their stores at 6 P. M., except Saturday, when they would keep open until 11 P. M. On evenings before Decoration Day, July 4, Thanksgiving, and for one week prior to Christmas, the salesmen must work until 9 P. M., with half holiday on the days referred to above. The salesmen demand whole holidays and cessation of work on all days after 6 P. M. About four hundred salesmen quit work at 6 o'clock to-night, the proprietors, book-keepers, cashiers and cash-boys continuing until 9 o'clock. The salesmen say that for the present they are willing to work half-holidays, and will return to work in the morning. Should they be discharged, as the rules of the merchants prescribe, a general strike will be declared.

Verdict for a Walking Delegate. CHICAGO, May 29 .- William Stallknecht, a walking delegate, obtained a verdict to-night for $7.500 against Rothschild & Son, furniture manufacturers, who had him arrested on the charge of inciting a strike. Stallknecht visited the factory one day, and two weeks later a strike followed. The walking delegate was arrested at 11 o'clock at night, and taken handcuffed to a detective agency that had been hired by the Rothschilds. Stallknecht claimed that he went to the factory to delivera private letter, not to advise a strike, and the complaint against him was dismissed next day by a justice of the peace. When the verdict to-night was returned the Rothschilds immediately entered a motion

NEW YORK, May 29.-A large audience in Chickering Hall, this evening, listened to an address by George William Curtis before the National Civil-service Reform League, at its annual meeting, the subject being, "The Reason and the Result of Civil-service Reform." Mr. Cartis said that though political bosses hate civil-service reform, he ventured to predict that the two national conventions soon to be held, one would praise the President for fidelity to it and the other would denounce him for his alleged sins against it. The fact was that the reform was never so deeply rooted as now. The present administration had not fully realized the hopes formed in regard to the reform, but had done much as compared with the practice of the past. Mr. Curtis closed with an eloquent reference to the season-one of decoration of the graves of those who died not for party, but for country, even as all should live, not for party, but for PITTSBURG, May 29.-Mrs. Dennis Bullins, living on Webster avenue, was brutally murdered this morning in the presence of her little children by a next-door neighbor, a German. named Scholer. The murder was the result of a fathily quarrel, which had been carried to court. The hearing was set for this evening. and Mrs. Mullins was the principal witness against Scholer. Shortly after Dennis Mullins left home for his work, Scholer came into the house, and, seizing Mrs. Mullins by the hair, drew a razor and cut her throat from ear to ear. The screams of the children attracted the attention of the neighbors, but before assistance arrived Scholer had fled. Mrs. Mullins died in a few moments. Scholer was captured on the street a few hours later and is now in jail.

Murderer Chamberlain Removed to Michigan City-A Sensational Damage Suit-A Summons from Judge Lynch-Gleanings.

INDIANA.

Chamberlain, the Mnrderer of Miss Witten berg, Removed to Michigan City.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal PERU, May 29. - Deputy Sheriff J. Richie, of Monticello, White county, and John Day, his assistant, arrived in the city this morning on the 3:40 train from the west, bringing with them Ed Chamberlain, the murderer, and who, it was feared, would be lynched by the people of that county. Chamberlain was lodged in jail here, and this morning at 11 o'clock taken north on the Lake Erie & Western train to Michigan City penitentiary for safe keeping. Chamberlain was securely handcuffed, and maintained a stolid demeanor toward the large crowd assembled to see him. Evidences, however, are not wanting to prove what a terrible mental agony the young man must have gone through with in the past few days. His face shows a craven, desperate look, is sallow, with sunken eyes, and blue rings around. That the dread of lynching was not removed, was further evi denced by his quick, nervous gestures and apprehensive look. Deputy Sheriff Richie, at one time sheriff of White county. relates the story of the escape as follows: Ad jutant-general Koontz, Captain Gresham, himself and John Day arranged in the afternoon as to taking the prisoner to a safe place, owing to the continued excitement over the affair. Shortly after 9 o'clock they took Chamberlain out of jail, through the sheriff's office, and by passing through the alley managed to avoid the crowd; when about half a mile out on the Delphi road they met Mr. Day with his wagon, who drove them to Deiphi. At that place they lay two hours, with the sheriff of Carroll county and then took the train East, arriving in Peru about 4 o'clock. No one knew aught about the in the Hungarian Diet. NEWS FROM ABROAD.

A French Journal Bitterly Resents the Recent Speech of Premier Tisza.

Paris, May 29 .- In the Chamber of Deputies, to-day, M. Reach asked M. Goblet, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, if he could reply to a question regarding Herr Tisza's speech requested that the question be postponed until he had received the necessary information on the subject. The Temps, commenting on Herr Tiszas's speech says: "Seldom has one state been heard to speak of another with such license. The action of Hungary in permitting herself to use such language regarding vanquished France Luthorizes us ask at what period and on what occasion her subjects have suffered from the violence or hos tility, or even distrust, of the French people. Our politicians, historians and poets have treated the Hungarians as allies, friends and brothers. When we preached th independence of nations and the liberties of men, it was Hungary and Poland and Italy we thought about. We have suffered with Hungary's misfortunes, we have deplored her miseries, we have rejoiced over her revival. Yet now it is Hungary that guarantees to Germany the possession of Alsace-Lorraine. Her Tisza convokes the Hungarian delegation and asks for money, declaring, after the example of Prince Bismarck, that France is guilty of every misdeed. Since this procedure has become part of international manners, and parliaments are found to permit it, we must be content to laugh at it, especially as the language of Herr Tisza is less insulting to France than to the memory of Hungary's patriots and liberators."

The Franco-German Passport Regulations. BERLIN, May 29. - The North German Gazette says: "The passport regulations for persons entering Alsace-Lorraine are not reprisals for certain incidents, but the outcome of a policy to consolidate the reacquisition of Alsace-Lorraine, which has been prevented by serious incitements and French preparations for a war of revenge, espionage and agitations which heighten the hostility of French-France, in order to strengthen itself, has fostered, rather than lessened, the national hatred toward Germany, the increase of which prevents Germans from entering France without endangering their lives. The fact that Germany's moderation and eaution have had no good results does not create a warlike feeling; but nevertheless it is desirable to restrict the intercourse between the two nations, and therefore we will not regret if France excludes Germans, as international friction wil thus, as far as possible, be avoided. Germany's action in Alsace-Lorraine serves the cause of John Bright's Iliness. London, May 29.-Mr. John Bright is more comfortable, and in some respects better tonight. It is expected, however, that in the event of his continued improvement he will be confined to his bed for several weeks.

Mr. Bright slept well during the day, and now much improved. To-night his temperature is 991 against 102 the previous night. The fall in temperature is considered an exceptionally good sign. Additional Reports of Loss of Life and Damage by the Recent Storms.

CADIZ JUNCTION, O., May 29.—A terrible wind-storm swept over Cadiz early last evening. It was heralded by a roaring that sounded like heavy artillery, and black clouds, capped by rolling white ones, leaped high in the air and whirled with terrible velocity. A few minutes after it swept downward near the roofs and spires of the higher buildings; the Presbyterian Church was rocked to its foundation, the spire was swept off its abutments and hurled into the street below. The point of the spire entered the law office of Mr. Stuart Shotwell, diagonally opposite, and crashed through it. At the time Mr. Shotwell was standing at a window not over a foot distant. It knocked a heavy iron safe over in the room, but did no other damage. Part of the roof of the church was blown off. The church building is valued at $60,000, and the damage is probably $6,000 to $10,000. The United Presbyterian church has a part of its front walls blown down. John Gillespie's furniture store has a part of the roof and walls blown in. The tin roof of the Odd-fellows' building was wrapped up as a scroll and torn asunder, deluging the hall and the wall-paper and news stand of N. F. Hanna. occupying the first story. A great number private dwellings were seriously damaged by having the roofs broken by falling bricks. Chimneys, trees and fences are scattered promiscuously. No deaths from the storm are reported in the cita but several narrow escapes occurred and several people were badly bruised by flying bricks, timbers, etc. The telegraph wires are down, messages having to be wired from this point eight miles away. No report has come in from the country, but it is feared great damage has been done east and northeast of this city in the country.

In Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. PITTSBURG, May 29.—The storm which swept over eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania, yesterday afternoon was of a very destructive character, and the aggregate loss to buildings, crops, and railroad and telegraph lines will foot up many thousand dollars. Several lives were also sacrificed and a number of persons

About Point Pleasant and Huntington, W. Va., at Canton, O., in Beaver county, Pennsylvania, and through the oil regions, the storm was particularly severe, the rain falling in tor repts while the wind was very violent. Near Ravenswood, W. Va. Mr. and Mrs. William Powell were killed by lightning while sitting in their home. At Charleston, W. Va., Mrs. Robert Shannon was killed by a falling tree. At Bridgeport, O., a six-year-old son of Joseph Howell was caught by a rush of water in a narrow ravine and drowned. Two companions made a parrow escape. At Bellaire, O., a rail-road brakeman named Castelle was killed while endeavoring to manage a train during the storm. At Canton, Q., houses were lifted from their foundations and steeples of several churches were wrecked.

In Beaver county, Pennsylvania, fully $20,000 worth of damage was done to property by the storm, but as far as known no one was injured. At Oil City the roof of the Arlington Hotel was blown off and the guests rushed from the building panic-stricken. Titusville also suffered severely. Frank Burchfield, of Pleasantville while crossing Pine creek bridge in a buggy, was blown over into the water. The vehicle was reduced to splinters and the horse lifted bodily and carried 100 yards away. Burchfield was badly hurt. Mrs. Barber and family, who were out driving, were also thrown from their carriage and slightly injured. Through the oil regions derricks were thrown down and much dam-

About this city the storm was not so heavy, but specials from many other points represent the hail falling as large as ben's eggs. Telegraph lines are down badly, and in many places the railroad tracks are covered with debris from the hills. The damage to orchards has been particularly heavy, many trees in the re-gions visited by the hail being stripped of every eaf, and other crops suffered in a correspond ing degree. The total loss will probably reach several hundred thousand dollars.

Two Children Drowned. OMAHA, Neb., May 29.-Two children, son and daughter, of Hugh Beckett, who lives seventeen miles south of Beatrice, were drowned during the heavy rain Sunday night. Mrs. Beckett and four children were at home alone when the rain came up. The house stands near a stream, in which the water rose rapidly. Fearing the house would be washed away. Mrs. Beckett, taking two children, aged four and five years, and bidding an eleven-year-old daughter to follow with the baby, left the house. In crossing a small gully the mother became fright-ened and fell, losing hold of the children, who were swept away into the stream below, where they met their death. The other daughter and baby, after a severe struggle with the torrent, reached the shore and were saved.

Damage in Iowa. DES MOINES, Ia., May 29. - The storm of Sun day night and yesterday morning, in South Des Moines, Sebastapol and Bloomfield townships was the most severe ever experienced in this section of the country. The fall of hail was terrific, and the rain descended in torrents. The hail-stones were piled and drifted in many places from two to four feet deep. The damage to gardens, fruit trees and vegetation generally is incalculable. Windows were broken out vegetables broken into the ground, and fruit and forest trees stripped of their foliage. Only two houses in Sebastopol were left uninjured. The reports from the eastern section of the State indicate that the storm was equally severe there, doing great damage to outbuildings

Killed by Lightning.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 29.-At Milenburg. a resort on Lake Ponchartrain, within a few miles of this city, yesterday, one man was killed and ten others injured, it is feared mortally, by a lightning stroke. About 5 o'clock in the evening a sudden storm came up from the lake and a large number of people sought refuge in a tent in one of the gardens. The storm lasted but a | placed under arrest. Gehring was thirty-five few moments, but during its height the tent was I years old, and was a corporal in the Cleveland struck, with the result above stated.

Eb Henderson Will Lead the Chorus.

Washington Post. It behooves every Democratic pilgrim who turns his face toward St. Louis to learn how to sing. The national convention of 1884 concluded its exercises by singing "Auld Lang Syne," a most significant choice as events have fallen out. But the last act of the St. Louis convoca-tion will be different. The delegates may sing what they please during the early stages of the reunion, but when their work is done they will be restricted to "Coronation:"

Let every kindred, every tribe
In this Convention Hall
To Cleveland majesty ascribe,
And crown him—lord of all.

Mr. Cleveland may not demand this earthly crown, but he will probably accept it upon the singing of this one verse. Our imperial President, though old in wisdom, is yet young in monarchical ways, and he has not that repose which marked the caste of Julius Cæsar.

To the Third-Party Gentlemen.

Our congratulations to the national Prohibition convention at Indianapolis. Those folk have on their hands a tremendously big idea, a little unwieldy just now, but they are gradually cutting it into practical shape, and, as related elsewhere, they mean business every time.

There is hardly a family in the country that has not suffered, directly or indirectly, from intemperance. We are with you, gentlemen, in the desire to keep the people sober and moral. There are differences of opinion as to the best way in which to accomplish these results, but go ahead. By and by you will get your fingers on the right nail, and then it will be easy to drive it home.

Was Familiar with the Other Side. Minneapolis Tribune.

He was a young man out canvassing for subscriptions to a projected Democratic daily. The man who answered his ring had a G. A. R. button in his lapel. This was the conversation: "Would you like to put your name down for our paper!" "Guess not; it's Democratic."

"Yes, but you ought to hear the other side."
"Thanks. I've heard the other side." "Where was that?" "From '61 to '65 at Gettysburg, Vicksburg and several other places." The young man is now canvassing with a door-mat for an attraction.

Fatal Railway Wreck. Louisville, Ky., May 29.-A railroad wreck occurred three miles from here to-day on the Louisville & Nashville railroad in which engineer W. M. Quinn was killed, fireman Richardson and brakeman Geo. Farley, fatally injured. The engine boiler exploded. Twenty-one freight cars were demolished.

Tells His Story in a Pleasing, Straightforward Manner.

Sixteen Years of Continuous Trial-Brought on by a Slight Cause, and at

"For sixteen years," said Mr. Wenner, "I suffered from what, for the first part of the time at least, seemed to be a continual cold in the head. It would be worse sometimes than others, and there would be a dull, heavy pain in my forehead and continual ringing and buzz-ing noises in my ears, with a discharge from my nose; at first thin and watery and then mu-

"I could feel the mueus dropping back into my throat and it seems as if that must have affected my stomach. I would have a feeling like craving or 'goneness' there, and yet I could eat but little. The sight of food would take my appetite away and there would be a kind of distress in my stomach and nausea after meals. Spots would seem to float before my eyes and I would have a dizzy, swimming kind of sensation whenever I would stoop over. "I found each spring and fall my trouble was worse than the year before, and though sometimes I would feel a little better, I knew that on the whole I

WAS LOSING STEADILY. "My throat would get filled up and somsthing would seem to stick way down in it that I could not get up or down by coughing or hawking. I would raise quantities of whitish and yellowish mucus and a great

"As my trouble grew worse and I continued to steadily lose in flesh, I grew weak and despond ent. I would have a tired, languid feeling all the time with no desire or ambition to do anything. It would seem as if I wanted to sleep twenty-three hours out of the twenty-four, and yet my sleep did not seem to rest or refresh me. I was unable to do any work at all, and I had to stay in bed for weeks at a time. "The trouble in my head and throat kept getting worse and it SEEMED TO EXTEND to my stomach and all over me. It was under-mining my strength. Well, it was in this miserable condition that I went to Dr. Blair at

I improved from the start under Dr. Blair's treatment, slowly at first and then more rapidly. My headache passed away. My head and throat became clear and well. My appetite returned. Sheridan's Memoirs, General Sheridan fortunately completed his memoirs three weeks ago, and the manuscript is now in the hands of his publishers. To his horror, the warrior found the two thick volumes ten pages short of the stipulated length, and he was more put to it to furnish the needed "copy" than be would have been at winning a battle. If he has written his Memoirs as well as he talks, the book will become a military classic. General Sheridan has all an Irishman's ability at putting things.

Do Not Think for a Moment That catarrh will in time wear out. The theory is false. Men try to believe it because it would be pleasant if true; but it is not, as all know. Do not let an acute attack of cold in the head remain unsubdued. It is liable to develop into catarrh. You can rid yourself of the cold and avoid all chance of catarrh by using Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. If already afflicted rid yourself of this troublesome disease speedily by the same means. At all druggists.
